About the 'Scream of Princess Reena'

Originally, a small gadget called 'Scream of Princess Reena' was supplied with Golvellius 2. This was a piece of cloth, which you were told to use at night on Friday the 13th. You had to hold both ends of the cloth and tear it apart at once.

Princess Reena's scream, sounding like silk being torn apart, would have broken the silence of the night...

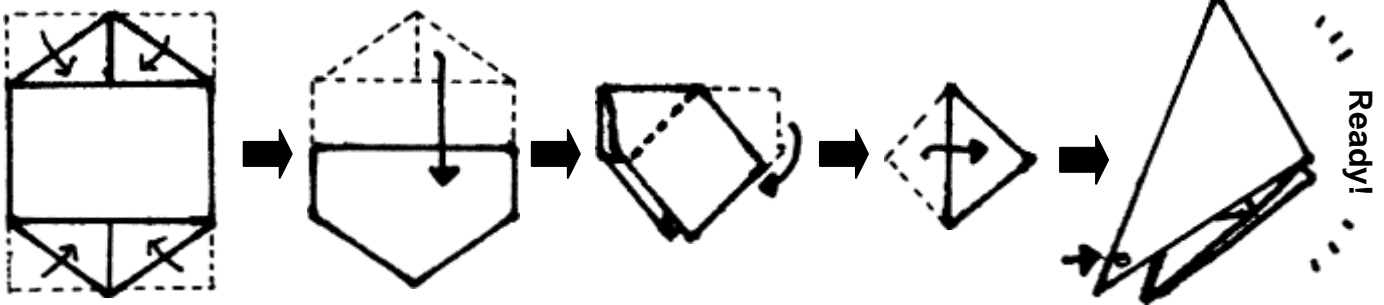

As it was not possible to provide you with a virtual version of the 'Scream of Reena', we kindly ask you to imagine the sound instead.

What's that?!

How to use 'Golvellius' Roar'

① Fold it as follows:

- ② Grip it loosely at the part marked with the arrow
- ③ Then, move your arm down at once with full strength!
- ④ Whoaaa! That's a great sound!!

This really sounds like the roar of Golvellius!!

Now, let's introduce some nice games to you that make use of Golvellius' Roar.

- ① Sneak up on a friend and use Golvellius' Roar near his ear.
- ② Follow some stranger at night in the dark. Suddenly dash at him and use Golvellius' Roar to make a loud noise when you pass by.
- ③ Go to a classic concert, wait for the moment that the music is at its quietest, and then use the device with all your strength.
- ④ Sneak behind riot police officers who have just surrounded a building in which someone is hiding with a rifle and use the Roar to make a noise as loud as possible.

If you really try these games and are slapped by someone, forced into a car that looks like a panda by people wearing blue suits and pistols and taken to prison by them or the atmosphere around you suddenly becomes awkward, keep in mind we will take no responsibility at all. Please refrain from calling us.

We're busy too, you know.
